ANOTHER WAR MEETING.

Support to the Families of Soldiers-Land and Money Subscribed.

At eight o'clock last evening the church bells of the city were rung to call the citizens of Indianapolis to a meeting at the State House to consider the subject of raising men and means for the war, and more especially to provide for the families of those who volunteer. The evening papers had given notice of the call and as the bells peeled forth the streets leading to the State House were filled with eager throngs. A FINE TEAM.-Who does not love a spirited horse, well trained and obedient to the rein and the word of his master? Is there anything more exhilarating than to dash across the fields on the back of a noble steed or to be whirled behind one in a buggy over such roads as we have around our city? There can be but one answer to these questions. Our friend Delzell, since he returned from the wars, has gathered around him a stock of horses that can't be beat in the West, and he has carriages and saddles and bridles to match. If you want a horse to ride he can fit you out with steeds that McClellan or Halleck might ride at a review. If you want to drive trust to Del. to give you a safe and spirited team. He has a pair of matches that it is a luxury to ride behind. The harness and fixtures at Deizell's are all new.

RALLY - RALLY - RALLY PATRIOTIC YOUNG Mex.-George Williams, a well known citizen, who served his country in the Mexican war, is raising a company, to be tendered to the Governor for the 70th regiment Indiana volunteers. He has already enrolled over thirty men, all young, able, enthusiastic and patriotic. George Williams is energetic, as well as experienced in military affairs, and a man who never does things by halves. We know no more eligible corps in which to volunteer than his. His recruiting office is on the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Alabama streets-his place of business. Capt. Williams, brave and patriotic, will be among the first in the field, with gallant boys who will be ready to die for the honor, glory and victory of the flag of the Union.

Gen. Pope's Address to his Soldiers. WASHINGTON, July 14.

To the Officers and Soldiers of the Army of Vir

By special assignment of the President of the United States, I have assumed command of this army. I have been two weeks in learning your whereabouts, your condition, and your wants, in preparing you for active operations, and in placing you in positions from which you can act promptly and to the purpose. I have come to you from the West, where we have always seen the backs of our enemies; from an army whose business it has been to seek the adversary and to beat him when found, whose policy has been attack and not defense. In but one instance has the enemy been able to place our Western army in a defensive attitude. I presume that I have been called here to pursue the same system, and to lead you against the enemy. It is my purpose to do so and that speedily. am sure you long for an opportunity to win the distinction you are capable of achieving. Let us act on this understanding, and it is safe to predict that your banners shall be inscribed with many a glorious deed, and that your names per pound on sugar, with a proviso not to apply to will be dear to your countrymen forever.

> JOHN POPE, Major General Commanding. From Washington.

Washington, July 13.—Some weeks ago the House passed a resolution calling upon the President for copies of correspondence showing the condition of our foreign relations. The reply through the State Department, is that the business there is so pressing and the documents so voluminous that they can not be prepared before the close of the session, but if the exigencies de mand it, they will be published during the ensuing recess of Congress. Applications for the offices of collectors of axes in the various collection districts are already counted by thousands and the number is increasing. They are addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, and require the daily labor of many clerks to assort and indorse them.

The rebel gunboat Teaser, captured on the James river, arrived here to-day. The project of a treaty with Mexico providing for a loan of $11,000,000 to that Republic was briefly discussed by the Senate in executive session on Saturday night and then laid on the by our reconnoitering cavalry. We learn by an officer of the Michigan 5th who is one of the 107 Federal prisoners which came from Baltimore Hospital yesterday, that the treatment they received from the rebel offi cers having charge of them while they were held captives was universally kind and humane, so different from what they had expected that it was actually surprising to themselves. A sutler who was at the White House at the time of the evacuation deemed it not safe to take away his money and buried it, some $600. He went up on the flag of truce boat John Tucker, and made known his case to some rebel officers, who went with him and helped him to obtain his
